

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Provided is a communication apparatus including:

an instruction means for instructing a 5 communication partner to transmit data having a designated data length; and a discrimination means for discriminating a status of the communication apparatus, in which the instruction means instructs the 10 communication partner to interrupt data transmission by setting the designated data length a predetermined length in accordance with a result of discrimination by the discrimination means.